

Tour de Cure ride

IN its second year, the Tour de Cure marathon bike ride, will cycle 1200 kilometres raising $2 million by its fourth year for men, women and children with cancer.

As only too many people know, a diagnosis of cancer means life changes forever. Tour de Cure, as a team, is dedicated to making a difference and helping your nearest and dearest to survive, the only way they know how, by raising significant amounts of money from cycling hard and fundraising even harder.

They are asking every Australian to join the 'ride' by making a donation to find a cure for cancer.

The second annual Tour de Cure ride will take place on March 31, when a team of 35 men and women hit the road from Melbourne to Sydney, riding 1200 kilometres over nine days, to raise money for the Prostate Cancer Foundation of Australia, the National Breast Cancer Foundation and Camp Quality.
